

Managing worry about COVID-19 and Type-1 Diabetes

We know that things feel a little scary and uncertain at the moment. Your experience of living with Type-1 Diabetes and the stresses and uncertainties it brings will make you more prepared to cope with this situation than most people. If you're finding yourself worrying, it might help to try to focus on the things that you can control in your life.

Things you CAN control Focussing on these can help your body and mind	Things you CAN'T control Focussing your worry on these won't help you

LOOK AFTER YOUR BODY

Try to make good food choices - this could be your chance to expand your cooking skills! Try to maintain a good exercise level.

LOOK AFTER YOUR MIND

Keep in touch with friends and family
If you're isolating, remember to care for yourself mentally.

SAY "NO" AND ASK FOR HELP

Feel confident in saying "no" and ask for help if you feel you need it.

WASH YOUR HANDS!

feel anxious. Do the best you can to keep yourself and those around you safe

WHAT'S IN THE SHOPS

You can't control the availability of supplies. Try to be patient and try not to panic buy.

AVAILABILITY OF HEALTHCARE STAFF & APPOINTMENTS

It may be more difficult to contact your healthcare team or attend appointments. However, there are likely to be alternative options such as phone or Skype appointments.

NEEDING TO SELF-ISOLATE IF SYMPTOMATIC

If you have been advised to self-isolate and have to miss work, school or appointments; this is okay and the best course of action to stop the spread of the virus.
